

BUDGET

Itemized For Board,

Including Provision For Superintendent's Aid.

New Salary Schedule Still In Making—Assistant Director Of Research Proposed.

Dr. E. D. Roberts, Superintendent of Schools, laid yesterday completed the preparation of an itemized budget for the Board of Education, in accordance with its instructions of last Friday. Its total is the same as the tentative total which the board set at that time, $7,519,630.

The budget itself is virtually meaningless, for the board expects to cut the total sharply, and because the Salary Committee has prepared a new salary schedule, presumably to displace the old one in Dr. Roberts's budget.

However, in it is one inconspicuous item which is likely to shatter the peace and quiet of the board's budget hearing Monday. This is an increase of $18,411 in the personal budget of the office of Superintendent of Schools.

May 10 the board gave to a committee the task of conferring with Dr. Roberts, who is retiring as Superintendent at a salary of $12,000 a year, less a cut. Since then nothing has been heard of the proposition. Some have believed the board intended to forget it.

AND "YES" IS ANSWER.
Dr. Roberts was asked last night if the increase in this item in his budget was partially to take care of the salary of a possible associate superintendent. His answer was "yes."

If the board should take up Dr. Roberts's budget item by item Monday, it appears that the hot chestnut will be hauled out of the fire. The board may have to go into executive session again.

The budget also calls for the addition of an assistant director in the Bureau of School Research and for approximately 12 additional teachers.

The figure of $7,519,630 as the tentative total was arrived at by the board taking the 1937 budget of $7,148,630, then adding certain increases, largest of which were items of $270,000 for mythical increments in teachers' pay and $100,000 to restore cuts of civil service employees.

The board thus deliberately set a too-high figure, for the reason that it may cut the budget it finally adopts but cannot raise it. A budget must be passed by July 15.

Dr. Roberts's job, then, was to take the increases and spread them out among the various items.

REPORT STILL INCOMPLETE.
Edwin G. Becker, only member of the board's salary committee now in town, said last night that he thought it unlikely that his committee would have its final report, proposing a complete revision of the salary schedule, ready for hearing Monday. Hence the board is expected to adopt Dr. Roberts's budget—or at least most of it—tentatively. It can make changes thereafter to conform to the new salary schedule, if it wishes, before it finally decides on the amount of money it expects to use in 1938.

This final decision may be made at any time more than 60 days before the fall election. The board must give notice of the extra levy it will seek at least 60 days before the vote.

The final amount, then, can be less than $7,519,630 but not more. It probably will be considerably less. That amount will require an extra levy of 2.35 mills, which revenue now in sight for 1938 totals only $3,404,665. A two-mill extra levy was defeated in the last election.

Kaiser reported that the waitress shot the woman after the latter refused to be served by her and used vile names. The victim was treated at General Hospital.

ZOO GARDENS

To Remain Home Of "Susie," Trained Gorilla—Value $100 In Inventory Of Estate.

Although "Susie," the trained gorilla at the Zoo, does not belong to the Zoo, she probably will remain there.

This was made known yesterday after an inventory of the estate of Robert J. Sullivan, late printer, was filed with Judge William H. Lunders in Probate Court. Sullivan was the owner of "Susie," having purchased her several years ago. He turned her over to the Zoo to be cared for there.

Although offered up to $25,000 for the animal, it is said, Sullivan always refused to part with her. He had turned down a number of offers from circuses and traveling showmen.

As a part of his estate, the appraisers were called upon to place a value upon the gorilla. They were informed that the heirs do not intend to part with her, but desire to have her remain at the Zoo, where she may be well cared for. So the appraisers listed her:

"One gorilla, known as 'Susie' and kept at the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens, Cincinnati, Ohio, $100." The total value of Sullivan's estate, as shown by the inventory, is $269,164.43, chiefly in gilt-edge securities.

COUNTY and FEDERAL COURTS

Relatives On Other Side In Divorce Suit

After listening while his father, brother, and sister-in-law testified against him, William C. Jacobs, 40 years old, 3339 Woodburn Avenue, heard Judge Hoffman grant a decree to Norma L. Jacobs, 43, 1515 Carolina Avenue, on the ground of neglect. She was given the custody of their son.

Another woman had come between them. The wife, father, brother, and sister-in-law testified to the facts. Jacobs was not contesting, being present with his counsel merely because of the alimony phase, it was said. He testified only as to his financial holdings. He is a commercial agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company.

Mrs. Jacobs testified that her husband admitted his love for one Gay Kraft, Dayton, Ohio, telling her that when "one falls in love he has no desire for anyone else," and that if his wife loved him she would "make the sacrifice" and let him "enjoy himself." He also said: "When you fall in love with some one it's just one of those things you cannot help." She said Jacobs bought the other woman a piano, and that she now is staying in Cincinnati.

Charles Jacobs, Harding Avenue, Cheviot, father, Clarence Jacobs, 1442 Yarmouth Avenue, brother, and the latter's wife told of going to Dayton with Mrs. Jacobs to ask the other woman to give up Jacobs. Married November 28, 1917, the couple separated April 28, 1936.

Admits "Another Woman."

Taking the stand in his wife's divorce case, William Weston Bray, 36 years old, 348 Proboscio Avenue, chemical engineer, employed by the Procter and Gamble Company, yesterday freely admitted her charge that another woman had supplanted her in his affections.

Lucy Grant Bray, 38, 445 Rawson Woods Lane, testified before Judge Charles W. Hoffman, in Domestic Relations Court, that her husband had become infatuated with a stenographer in New York City, designated only as "Sally."

Mrs. Bray said she finally decided to seek a divorce, and that her husband had signed a contract to pay her $400 a month out of his $10,000 a year salary, to provide for her and their two children.

Bray took the stand, having been subpoenaed by the wife. When told by Judge Hoffman that he might say anything he wished to Bray stated: "I admit I love that woman, and in view of this, conditions became intolerable at home, and it seemed unfair to Mrs. Bray, and the children and for me. It made it practically impossible to maintain our family together."

Judge Hoffman granted a decree to the wife on the ground of neglect.

Wife Took All!

When Wallace T. Klingelhoff, Jr., 1115 Groesbeck Road, returned home in February, 1935, he discovered that Magdalen S. Klingelhoff, whom he married May 30, 1933, had moved out with their furniture with the aid of another man. So he told Judge Hoffman yesterday at the hearing of his divorce petition. It won him a decree on the ground of neglect.

Other divorce decrees granted yesterday: Birdie Sroupe, 814 Wade Street, from Jesse L. Sroupe, neglect; Victor Beck, 804 Plum Street, from Mae Ball Beck, on the ground that she was the wife of John Wood when married to Beck in 1935; Esther Schmidt Langland, 2424 Fairview Avenue, from William D. Langland, neglect; and Omelia Rice, 2158 Loth Street, from James Rice, neglect.

Wants To Work On A Farm!

Following his plea of guilty of assault to rob Raymond Hay, 330 East Seventh Street, cab driver, Charles Sawyer, 23 years old, Negro, asked Judge Dennis J. Ryan in Criminal Court to send him to the "F.M.I." meaning the Feeble-Minded Institute. Told he could not go there, Sawyer said he wanted to go where he can work on a farm. Judge Ryan informed him that the reformatory is the place for that.

Gordon H. Scherer, Assistant County Prosecutor, told the court that on May 27 Hay, falling asleep in his taxicab, was awakened by Sawyer and another Negro jumping in his pockets. One pointed a fountain pen at Hay, who started to obey an order to take off his trousers.

Then he saw the pen and started for the pair. Both ran, but he pursued Sawyer until police caught the Negro.

Charges Breach Of Contract.

Claiming that Leo Kider, 3144 Reading Road, violated an agreement not to open a barbershop within a half mile of 3429 Reading Road, Celie Riatt, 3458 Burnet Avenue, filed suit in Common Pleas Court, seeking an injunction and $600 as damages. Through Paul J. Crone, attorney, she says she purchased the Reading Road shop from Kider March 24, under his agreement not to engage in business within half a mile for a period of three years. Instead, she charges, he opened another shop at 3144 Reading Road May 19 and has been taking customers from her.

Guilty Pleas Are Entered By Three Of Four

Arraigned on charges of violating counterfeiting laws, three Adams County, Ohio, men yesterday pleaded guilty before William P.

Hohmann, United States Commissioner, and a fourth entered a plea of not guilty.

Everett Blankenship, 23 years old, tattoo artist, Rural Route 1, Seaman, Ohio, denied that he conspired with Orville Cook, 35, River Creek, Ohio, to counterfeit and pass 50-cent pieces. In default of $3,500 bond he was sent to the Hamilton County Jail. Preliminary hearing will be held next Tuesday.

Cook, and men registered as Roy Hayslip, 18, laborer, Blue Creek, and Roy McGown, 26, farmer, also of Blue Creek, pleaded guilty to passing bogus 50-cent pieces. In default of bond of $3,000 each, they were committed to the Hamilton County Jail for appearance before the Federal Grand Jury in October.

The men were arrested Wednesday by United States Secret Service Agents Richard G. Pfeffer and James King, Cincinnati, and Sheriff George Baldrige and Deputy Grimes Morgan, West Union, Ohio.

Evidence failing to support the charges made against them, United States Commissioner William P. Hohmann yesterday dismissed four Negroes who had been charged with having possessed a still, mash, and liquor at 1064 Clark Street July 2 in violation of internal revenue laws. The defendants were Osby Miller, 21 years old, laborer, 426 Oliver Street; John H. Miller, 16, 1337 Baymiller Street; Mrs. Anna Lou Innan, 34, 1064 Clark Street; and Sophronia Phillips, 40, 1062 Oehler Street.
